CONSTRUCTION LEADERSHIP COUNCIL

DEVELOPING THE NEXT GENERATION
OF CONSTRUCTION LEADERS

AGC of Kentucky's Construction Leadership Council (CLC) is designed to develop the next generation of construction industry leaders. Through professional development, industry education, networking and community involvement, participants strengthen their leadership skills, broaden their industry knowledge and build valuable relationships with peers from across Kentucky's construction community.

Participating in the CLC is an investment in both your employees and the future of your company.

We encourage member firms to identify promising professionals within their organizations and give them the opportunity to participate. CLC members will become more engaged with AGC, stay informed about industry trends and best practices, exchange ideas with fellow professionals and develop the confidence and connections needed to take on greater leadership responsibilities.

WHY PARTICIPATE?

- Develop stronger leadership and communication skills
- Expand knowledge of the commercial construction industry
- Build meaningful relationships
- Stay informed on current industry trends and best practices
- Become more engaged with AGC of Kentucky
- Gain the confidence and connections to take on greater leadership roles
